A QUILTER'S DELIGHT - Over 100 quilts and quilted items, from brand new to cherished vintage heirlooms, were on display in the Quilt Show.

First time Aggregate for Flanders

The 2015 Elk Point Agricultural Society Horticulture and Craft Show featured new attractions and a brand new Grand Aggregate winner.

Former Fair Board chairman Verona Lea Flanders, who spent many years handing out the show's awards and who also won the Sewing section sponsored by Hahn Welding and the Yard Art section sponsored by JPD Enterprises Ltd., was named Grand Aggregate winner of the Ag Society cash award and a plaque sponsored by UFA.

Three generations of the Flanders family competed and won sections in the show, with daughter Jennifer Van der Hoek winning Creative Writing, sponsored by the Elk Point Review, and granddaughter Mackenzie Flanders winning the Junior Fair award from Shamrock Valley Enterprises.

Dolores Mohyluk, winner of the Seniors section sponsored by Hahn Welding and placing second in the Aggregate, also accepted the Violet Award. This award is presented annually by the McFadyen family in memory of the late Violet McFadyen, who, daughter Myrna Fox said, was "an enthusiastic supporter and participant" in the annual fair. "Our family wants to support fair competition," she added, explaining that the award goes to the person with the most entries in two categories that are chosen at random before the show each year, and which remain secret until the award is handed out.

Movie history at Ferguson Flats

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

History was made at Ferguson Flats on Saturday night as the community hosted its first-ever drive-in movie.

The movie night is one of a series being hosted at small communities in the area by the County of St. Paul and Elk Point FCSS, which have been made possible by the purchase of an inflatable screen and projector by the St. Paul and District Co-op.

Although a rain storm raged to the south as FCSS staff set up the unit and lightning continued to illuminate the clouds throughout the evening, not a single drop of rain spoiled the evening as viewers in lawn chairs, on blankets and in vehicles settled down with bags of complimentary popcorn and thoroughly enjoyed the family-style fun of 'Barnyard.'

SATURDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES - A comfortable chair, a bag of popcorn and 'Barnyard' on the playbill spelled enjoyment for a good crowd of spectators at Ferguson Flats.

"We hope this will encourage people to contribute entries in multiple sections," Fox said. Because the award's namesake "loved flowers and plants, especially African violets," the award was a basket of these very special plants.

Third place, in a very close competition that required several recounts of points, went to Denise Bjorkman, who also won the Arts, Crafts and Hobbies section sponsored by Elk Point Insurance.

Margaret Bayduza was a double section winner, taking home the Baking award from Elk Point Co-op and the Photography award from Home Town Grocers. Her son Daniel Cardinal took home the Junior Creative Writing award, also sponsored by the Review.

First-time section winners included Kathy Berlinguette, in the Canning section sponsored by the Empress Family Restaurant, Rosemarie Rohner, House Plants sponsored by Moe's Greenhouse, and Bev Bepalko, Quilting, sponsored by B & R Eckels.

Other winners included Myrna Fox, in the Flowers section sponsored by Rona, Laverne Wilson, Fresh Fruit, sponsored by Knotty Boyz, Marieanne Pierson, Knitting and Crocheting, sponsored by Elk Point PharmaChoice, and Don Brooker, Vegetables, sponsored by

B & R Eckels.

New attractions at this year's show included Elk Point Minor Ball's fund-raising barbecue and a bouncy house that entertained the children. A fine art display included the work of Linda Hymanyk, Kathy Gusnowski, Shirley Kinneberg, Bonnie Smith, Donna Chamberland and talented new exhibitor Caleb MacKinnon.

Displays by Alberta Beef, Portage College and Elk Point Health Care Auxiliary were right next to a full complement of mini trade show booths that included not only three first time local exhibitors, Kali Cousins with gorgeous handmade jewelry, Lee Wruth with an extensive display of woodcraft and Jorja Theriault with on-site artistry of henna tattoos, but also a special treat for quilters, with a quilt shop from Cold Lake joining the lineup.

The quilt show itself, highlighted with five quilts on display outside the arena, included just over 100 items, from full-sized and baby quilts to table centres and wall hangings that wowed the audience.

Show organizer Donna Bassett thanked all who entered, applauding the weather-plagued horticulturalists that "got their entries out of the garden and got them here," and noting, "We rely on the community to enter, and its businesses to sponsor, and I'm happy to say we met our sponsorship goals."

SOMETHING FOR ALL AGES - Quilts draped on the events sign, fence, and tree, a barbecue pit and a bounce castle welcomed Sunday's visitors to the Elk Point Agricultural Society's Horticulture and Craft Show at A. G. Ross Arena.

OUTSTANDING ART - By six talented area artists was an added attraction at the Horticulture and Craft Show.

Forts' 'Bushcraft 1792' event goes Aug. 29

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Organizers of Bushcraft 1792, the second and final major event of the 2015 summer at Fort George and Buckingham House Provincial Historic Site, are overcoming challenges and firming up the details for the Saturday, Aug. 29 event, which is billed by Alberta

Culture and Tourism as "a day of demonstrations and hands-on learning of skills that may just help you survive in the wilderness today."

One of the challenges is that "some people may show up a week early" for the event, according to the Forts' program coordinator Ross Stromberg, who says that one of the tourist publications has it slated for Sunday, Aug. 23. "I hope people will go with the information in the Alberta's Lakeland guide, which has the correct date, instead."

Another challenge, Stromberg said is that most of the season's staff will be leaving the next day to return to school, which leaves him shorthanded for the final week of operation, as the site is normally open until Labour Day. "But we will still have staff for the Bushcraft event."

That staff has been kept busy with a steady stream of visitors this summer, with the site open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., with the largest concentration of visitors on the weekends, according to head interpreter Bailey Oster, who noted that the visitors had included a tour group of seniors from outside the area.

A variety of outside resources will be on hand for the Bushcraft event as well as Friends of the Forts volunteers, who traditionally assist from tasks ranging from cooking burgers and scooping ice cream to demonstrating the fine art of bannock making and assisting the staff with taking admissions. Lakeland Industry and Community Association will be bringing in some wildlife displays, history and nature buff Billie Milholland will share her extensive knowledge of the food nature provided for the trappers and fur traders of two centuries and more ago, and an army cadet and a cadet training officer well versed in wilderness survival will demonstrate fire starting with flint and steel and other outdoor skills. Guests proficient in other outdoors skills have also been invited to take part.

Bushcraft 1792 goes Saturday, Aug. 29 from noon to 5 p.m. at Fort George and Buckingham House Historic Site, 11 km southeast of Elk Point via Highway 646.

ATTENTION: MEN OVER FORTY

In Alberta, 1 in 7 men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer in their lifetime, but when detected early, prostate cancer has a 95% survival rate. All men age 40 and over are invited to invite the MAN VAN™ and receive a free baseline PSA (Prostate Specific Antigen) blood test. It only takes 5 minutes and could change your life!

NDP candidate sees need for change

Election called for Oct. 19

JANANI WHITFIELD
Review Staff

Many Elk Point residents may be familiar with area resident Duane Zaraska, but Zaraska is hoping to get a lot more recognition and support among people in the new Lakeland riding as he runs for the NDP in the upcoming Oct. 19 election.

"This is my first crack at it," he said of his foray into federal politics. "I'm like a lot of the public - I see the need for change."

Prime Minister Stephen Harper called the election on Aug. 2, with observers anticipating this may be the longest and most costly campaign in modern Canadian times.

Zaraska, who is currently serving as the Metis Nation of Alberta's vice-president for Region 2, believes the worst offence of the federal Conservative party has been in its management of the economy.

"We're in the worst shape we've ever been," he said, pointing to recessionary times, a loonie that dropped to an 11-year-low of 75.87 cents US last week, and sinking oil prices. "There's a crisis here and that's really motivated me to run."

The new Lakeland riding will replace the former Westlock-St. Paul federal riding represented by Conservative MP Brian Storseth. Storseth has announced he will not be running in the recently called election and Shannon Stubbs will replace his name on the ballot as the Conservative candidate. Robert McFadzean will be the Libertarian Party of Canada candidate, while a Liberal candidate had yet to be announced as of last Friday.

Despite the region's tendency to vote Conservative, Zaraska believes the majority of voters are being hurt by the Conservative government's direction on policy.

"I think (NDP leader) Tom Mulcair is the only one with a plan," he said, adding this entails changing the country's focus from being strictly commodity-focused, and expanding the manufacturing, agriculture, secondary processing and alternative energy sectors, among others. "We should have diversified a long time ago."

Zaraska says that the Conservatives have the advantage in terms of campaign dollars. According to Elections Canada, the Conservatives have raised more than $76 million since 2012, the Liberals have raised about $46 million and the NDP have raised almost $33 million.

While Zaraska called this a "slanted election," he said, "We're not going to be intimidated by that. We're a strong team, we have a strong message."

As to what he would bring to the table as a politician, Zaraska points to his varied experience, as someone who has advanced issues like education, economics and politics for the Metis people, as well as in his past work as a youth worker, a bus driver, an entrepreneur and a small business owner, as well as his participation with groups like the Lakeland Industry and Community Association board and the Beaver River Watershed Alliance.

"I'm a common man and I'm for the common man," he said.

In his view, the federal government under the NDP would be a strong, social democratic government. He would like to see the government revisit the rights of aboriginals, bring back the Canadian Wheat Board, develop more wind and solar power, work with the provinces on improving health care and post-secondary education, and bring about a national, affordable child care program.

"All of those things have been ignored. We're so focused on the one industry and looking after the big people, the 10 per cent. We're not looking after the majority of people."

"We need change and that's what the NDP is about, change."

RCMP investigating rash of break- and enters, thefts

E-readers and tablets are wonderfully convenient ways of taking books on a holiday. However, it is a screen and some screens will emit a blue light that can compromise a good night's sleep. It seems to be the back-lit screens that are more of a problem. If you are used to reading before bed, try a good, old-fashioned paper book. It just might help you get

PBS television had a three-part series on cancer back in April. It was hard to watch but one thing was quite clear. Even though cancer hasn't been conquered yet, there have been great strides forward in treating many types of cancer. Survival rates for childhood leukemia, breast cancer and prostate cancer have improved immensely over the decades and will continue to improve with all cancers.

Industry support is still there

Amid the predictions of doom and gloom, and the reality of massive layoffs, it's good to see that the energy sector is buckling down and hanging in, and even continuing to give their support to the communities where they operate.

It would be so easy, and even understandable, for cash-strapped businesses to say "go away and don't bother us" when asked to contribute to local events, but fortunately that hasn't been the case. Canada Day got the funding it needed to put on one of the biggest July 1 celebrations ever, sponsorship was still in place for the Elk Point Horticulture and Craft Show this past weekend, and if you look on the Oilmen's Golf Tournament pages in this issue, you'll see that the list of sponsors and donors is at least as long as ever.

Maybe some of the donations for these events may be a bit smaller, but they are there, and they are gratefully accepted. Companies are giving what they can, and thanks to their generosity, it all adds up to giving our local groups the ability to carry on hosting these much-anticipated events.

Also, the organizing committees of these and other events are still hanging in, willing to work with reduced budgets if necessary, and extra happy if they don't have to. The continued support is what keeps them going.

The Annual Horticulture and Craft Show was held over the weekend. All the displays were fantastic and you could really see all the pride put into every entry. The home businesses on display is a nice touch to the fair and allowed a lot of people to display their products in a casual way. If you saw any businesses, artists or products you're interested and forgot to get information, feel free to contact me and I'll track them down.

The quilts on display were wonderful, which brings up the bus trip. On September 12th, a bus will be heading to the Creative Stitches & Crafting Alive! These shows are Western Canada's number one Sewing and Crafting events, showcasing Sewing, Scrapbooking, Quilting, Knitting, Needlework, Fibre Arts, Beading and Paper Crafting, with hands-on classes, educational seminars and free stage shows!!

There is limited seating available, please sign up ASAP by emailing recreation@elkpoint.ca or call 780-207-5898.

On August 28th, The FCSS will be hosting a Drive-in Movie at Dusk in the field north of the arena. The Coop has donated all the supplies, the movie, the scree, trailer, and equipment to show the film. They have also donated popcorn for everyone! It is absolutely free. And to ensure the popcorn doesn't leave you thirsty The Town of Elk Point's rec department will donate a drink for everyone in attendance. The movie will be determined at a later date, and will be appropriate for all ages.

WAY BACK WHEN...

Building boom, highway widening, fisherman found

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF AUGUST 11 IN...

1985

Building permits topped $5.3 million for the first seven months of the year, with six residential and one industrial permit issued in July bringing the total to 41 residential, three institutional, eight commercial, seven industrial and one community facility permits issued since January 1. Seventy-two young ladies ranging in age from nine to 15 and 17 staff members enjoyed a week on the shores of Muriel Lake at the Lakeland Division Girl Guide Camp Noster.

1990

The long-awaited widening of Highway 41 from Elk Point to the junction of Highway 28 got underway, with fences and trees being removed and underground installations moved to permit the necessary excavation work. Thundershowers dumped a considerable amount of water and small hail on some areas, while others received only a brief sprinkle that didn't offer help to crops that were already estimated to yield only 50 to 60 per cent of normal amounts.

Christina Brown won her second Elk Point Fair aggregate in a row, along with accepting section wins in baking, knitting, crochet and weaving, and the seniors' section to pull ahead of Lois Yaremkevich and Norma Berg in the points standing. "Read Around the World" was the theme for the Elk Point Library's Summer Reading Program, and the youngsters explored the wonders of "Down Under" as they read about Australia and its fascinating animals.

Saskatchewan River near Lindbergh when he lost his footing on a sandbar, and was found almost 14 hours later on shore several miles downstream, suffering from dehydration and exposure. Tourist information centre numbers were down significantly from the previous two years, with 227 visitors in June and July compared to 277 in 1999 and 413 in 1998, with 1994 the best year of the decade with 1,141 visitors signing in.

Roy Scott and his Red River cart (shown above, with his wife Marjorie) were a popular attraction at Potta Trail Days at Riel Beach, an event that included everything from boating on the lake to a musical drama on the history of Louis Riel and other entertainment. The Friends of Fort George and Buckingham House hosted their second annual Saskatoon Dessert Day, serving up some history as well as the goodies.

2010

Elk Point Community Choir was on the road again, climbing on the bus on the first leg of their journey to London, England to begin a two-week, five-concert tour of England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland. Elk Point ratepayers could rest assured that funding for the community's multiple major projects was not coming from their tax dollars, Mayor Parrish Tung stated, but rather from saving up grants and using them to leverage additional grants to improve local infrastructure.

Elk Point Oilmen's Association
32 year hosts of this annual event!

EPOA President's Message

Well, it has come that time of year again and the 32nd Annual Elk Point Oilmen's Golf Tournament is here. On behalf of the EPOA, I would like to welcome all attending and involved for this year's event.

This year has most definitely been a lot different than years past, with the shape the economy has been. So I would like to dedicate this year to the companies that help make this event possible with their donations, small and large. We would not be able to have events like this without the support from the community. So, THANK YOU from all of us on the EPOA!

I would also like to thank the Town of Elk Point that lets us continue to use the Golf Course for an event like this. And to the golf course staff for all that they must have to put up with and the long days and nights (but, I am sure, sometimes entertaining). Now onto the golfers that will be participating in this year's event: Welcome to our 32nd Annual Elk Point Oilmen's Golf Tournament. It is good to see so many returning golfers again this year and we are happy to see many new entries joining in on the golf. This even is all about having a fun, enjoyable weekend that will hopefully take away the stress of the day-to-day grind. So we hope all involved have an enjoyable time and stay safe. Now on to my EPOA golf committee, it has been a lot of work for us this year and it has only just begun. So thank you and your families for the time it takes to put on something like this.

So in closing, I wish the best to all the golfers and non-golfers, I hope you can create new friendships and lasting memories. Thank you again for your time and I hope you enjoy your weekend and we see you again next year. Please enjoy our shuttle service and please don't drink and drive.

Farming history comes to life at Haying in the '30s

AUTOMATION FROM THE PAST - Stoney Lake area senior Steve Drobot demonstrates his wood splitter for Haying in the '30s visitors.

HOLDING STEADY - Dean Ockerman gives his grandpa, Morris Irvine, a hand as the Lindbergh wheelwright carefully fits a spoke in a wagon wheel.

HISTORIC HOME - A small brown farmhouse, once home to Melvin and Leatha Ockerman and their family at Ferguson Flats, gives Haying in the '30s visitors a glimpse at the rural lifestyle in days gone by.

FROG LAKE TEAMSTER Ervin Quinney heads for the track on Saturday, Aug. 1 in Dewberry, winning Heat 5 with a clean running time of 1:10.03.

Ray Mitsuing wins Frog Lake CPCA chuckwagon meet

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Canadian Professional Chuckwagon Association president Ray Mitsuing of Loon Lake, Sask. is heading to the championship finals with his wheels on fire after winning the August long weekend meet hosted by Frog Lake First Nations on the Dewberry race track.

The meet got off to a slow start for Mitsuing, who placed ninth the first night and twelfth the second night, but the longtime competitor sped up to a second place finish on night three and finished the meet with Sunday's fastest run as the leaders from the earlier nights succumbed to slow times and penalties. He edged out his nearest competitor, Dallas Dyck, by 2.34 seconds in the aggregate and first night winner B. J. Carey by 3.07 seconds. Wayne Knight placed fourth overall, with Jamie Laboucane fifth and local favourite Chance Bensmiller sixth.

Mitsuing led the points race coming out of Dewberry, with 22.5 points ahead of second place Wayne Knight and 31 points ahead of third place Kris Molle, with just this past weekend's show in Turtleford to go before the CPCA Finals in Lloydminster, where Mitsuing will defend his 2014 title and the 2015 Canadian Champion will be named.

Theft stalls trestle rebuild

STAFF WRITERS

The theft of timber meant for the restoration of the Beaver River Trestle adds insult to injury.

Marianne Price, Administrative Coordinator for Alberta's Iron Horse Trail said she was disappointed to hear from a Cold Lake resident yesterday that someone had helped themselves to four of the big timbers being stored at the Cold Lake staging area.

RCMP have been notified of the theft, and Price hopes that by sharing this in the media, someone will spot the timbers and report it to the police.

In June of 2012, arsonists set the Beaver River Trestle on fire rendering it unsafe for the public. The $1.5 million restoration has been in the works for some time.

"It has taken some time to raise the money needed to repair the trestle. We are still short funds but went ahead with the construction contract so we can get the trestle open this year," Price said. "The construction crew had timbers shipped in about two weeks ago and are moving on site tomorrow to begin work in the burnt portion of the trestle."

Anyone with any information on the theft of the timbers is asked to call the Cold Lake RCMP at (780) 594-3301 or Crimestoppers at 1-800-222-8477.
